

Faster time-to-market

Nemein Solutions is an innovative software company specializing in mobile business solutions that are based on the Open Source Midgard Application Server. By using the Midgard environment, Nemein can provide tomorrow's solutions today and create a more flexible and supervised business environment. Products can be tailored to customers' demands, and they supports clustering and replication. The fast production process provides a new kind of flexibility in terms of the company's modification pressures.

Professional solutions with Nemein

Midgard is a freely available content management solution for web and WAP services. It is also a toolkit for building dynamic applications to power eBusiness and Information Management processes. Midgard has been built by and is actively maintained by a global group of software professionals working together in this "Open Source" project. One of the Midgard's original developers, Henri Bergius is Nemein Solutions' Consultant Partner and has actively participated in the constant development of the ongoing project. By utilizing Midgard, Nemein has produced Nemein.net, the Nemein family of solutions.
