7xx Introduction

7xx fields

Use fields 700–730 to provide additional access to a bibliographic record from names and/or titles having various relationships to the item you are cataloging. Added entries are made for persons, corporate bodies and meetings having some form of responsibility for the creation of the work. This includes intellectual and publishing responsibilities.

Use fields 700–730 also for added entries for other titles under authority control related to the work for which the record is made (e.g., other editions). Added entries are assigned to records for persons, corporate bodies, meetings and titles which are not given access through subject or series entries.

Use field 740 (Added Entry–Uncontrolled Related/Analytical Title) for a title not under authority control for a part of the item being cataloged or a related item.

Use fields 752–754 to provide access to an item through other aspects of its content or description.

Use fields 76x–78x for linking entries for related items. These fields identify the relationship between bibliographic items.

Use fields 790–793 for added entries not supported by the other cataloging rules.

Current cataloging

If you are inputting current cataloging, construct entries according to Anglo-American Cataloguing Rules, second edition (AACR2) and Library of Congress (LC) practice. Search the OCLC Authority File to verify forms of entry.

Use current LC-AACR2 or AACR2-compatible forms of names and uniform titles. If the current LC-AACR2 or AACR2-compatible form is unknown, construct the heading according to AACR2 1998 rev. and the Library of Congress Rule Interpretations (LCRIs).

Retrospective cataloging

If you are inputting retrospective cataloging, search the OCLC Authority File to verify forms of entry.

Use current LC-AACR2 or AACR2-compatible forms of names and uniform titles. If the current LC-AACR2 or AACR2-compatible form is unknown, you may enter the pre-AACR2 form, but you are encouraged to construct the heading according to AACR2 and the LCRIs.

See section 2.2, “Transcribing Pre-AACR2 Copy,” for more information.

Definition

A personal name used as an added entry. Added entries are assigned according to various cataloging rules to give access to the bibliographic record from personal name headings which may not be more appropriately assigned as field 600 (Subject Added Entry–Personal Name) or field 800 (Series Added Entry–Personal Name). Use for the following types of personal names:

- Names of persons capable of authorship
- Phrases having the structure of forenames or surnames. Use this type of entry if a phrase characterizes an author and is the only clue to the author's identity
- Names of families

1st Indicator

Type of personal name entry element. The form of name. These values could be used to facilitate card filing arrangements. However, OCLC does not differentiate among forms of name for sorting cards.

AACR2 prescribes that you not use names of families as main or added entries (field 100, field 700 and field 800). You may, however, use names of families as subject entries (field 600).

Use also for current cataloging of archival collections cataloged according to Describing Archives: A Content Standard.

0 Forename. Use for the following types of names:

- Names structured as forenames (direct order)
700 0 Father Divine.
- Names that consist of initials in direct order
700 0 R. M. B.
- Characterizing phrases in direct order
700 0 Author of Allons au ciel.
- If a forename/surname status is in doubt, treat the name as a forename 700 0 Ram Gopal.

1 Surname. Use for the following types of names:

- Names (real or pseudonyms) having any inverted order
700 1 Chiang, Kai-shek.
- Names known to be surnames but lacking forenames 700 1 Stendhal.
- Names consisting of multiple entry elements that include articles or prepositions (e.g., De, La or Van)
700 1 De la Mare, Walter
- Names of persons known under sobriquets and nicknames that have the structure of surnames 700 1 Other, A. N.

3 Family name. Use for the name of a family, clan, dynasty, house or other such group. The name may be constructed in direct or inverted order.

700 3 Norfolk, Dukes of

2nd Indicator

Type of added entry. The type of added entry. The values distinguish between no information provided and an analytical entry. These indicators could be used to facilitate card filing arrangements. However, OCLC does not differentiate among types of added entries for sorting cards.

b No information provided. Either the added entry is not for an analytic or no information is provided as to whether the added entry is for an analytic.

- 100 1 Gershkoff, Ira.
- 245 14 The Boston driver's handbook : b the big dig edition / c Ira Gershkoff and Richard Trachtman.
- 500 Rev. ed. of: Wild in the streets, c1982.
- 700 1 Gershkoff, Ira. t Wild in the streets.

2 Analytical entry. The item contains the work that is represented by the added entry.

- 100 1 Bouma, Jelle.
- 245 10 Marcus Iunius Nypsus : b Fluminis varatio, Limitis repositio : introduction, text, translation, and commentary / c Jelle Bouma.
- 700 12 Nypsus, Marcus Iunius. t Fluminis varatio. f 1993.
- 700 12 Nypsus, Marcus Iunius. t Limitis repositio. f 1993.

Subfields

a Personal name

A surname and/or forename; abbreviations, initials, letters, numbers or phrases used in place of a name; or a family name. Use subfield c for parenthetical qualifying terms associated with the name. Use subfield q for fuller forms of a name added as a qualifier. Enter a period after initials. Enter one space between initials.

- 700 12 Ravel, Maurice, d 1875-1937. t Histoires naturelles. p Grillon.

b Numeration

A Roman numeral alone or a Roman numeral and a subsequent part of a forename. Use only in a forename heading (i.e., entries with 1st indicator value 0).

- 700 0 Alexander b VIII, c Pope, d 1610-1691.
- 700 0 Gustaf b II Adolf, c King of Sweden, d 1594-1632.

c Titles and other words associated with a name

Titles and other words associated with a name. These include qualifying information such as:

- A Roman numeral used with a surname
  - 700 1 Evans, Montgomery, c II.
- Initials of an academic degree or denoting membership in an organization, e.g., F.L.A.
  - 700 1 Smith, John T., c B.A., M. Phil.
- Terms of address, e.g., Mrs.
  - 700 1 Beach, H. H. A., c Mrs., d 1867-1944.
- Titles designating rank, office or nobility, e.g., Sir

  - 700 0 Vivekananda, c Swami, d 1863-1902.
  - 700 0 Walther, c von der Vogelweide, d 12th cent.

If the heading is a surname followed directly by a prefix without intervening forenames or forename initials, the prefix is contained in subfield ‡c to prevent its being processed as a forename in searching.

700 1 Walle-Lissnijder, ‡c van de.

If a heading consists of a surname with a title or associated words, enter the title following the surname and preceding any other element of the heading. Use subfield ‡q for fuller forms of names in parentheses.

700 1 Gatti de Gamond, ‡c Madame ‡q (Zoé Charlotte)

Multiple adjacent titles or words associated with a name are contained in a single subfield ‡c. Repeat subfield ‡c only when words associated with a name are separated by subelements contained in other subfields.

700 0 Charles Edward, ‡c Prince, grandson of James II, King of England, ‡d 1720-1788.

Use for other parenthetical additions to a name.

700 0 Spagna ‡c (Artist) ‡d ca. 1450-1528.

‡d Dates associated with a name

Birth, death or flourished dates used with a name. A qualifier used with the date (e.g., b., d., ca., fl., cent. or ?) is also contained in subfield ‡d.

700 12 Hazlitt, William, ‡d 1778-1830. ‡t On the fear of death. ‡l French & English.

700 0 Walther, ‡c von der Vogelweide, ‡d 12th cent.

The print program provides any necessary additional spaces after the hyphen.

700 1 Smith, John, ‡d 1924- ‡e defendant.

Prints as:

Smith, John 1924- defendant.

‡e Relator term

A designation of function that describes the relationship between a name and a work (e.g. collector, comp., defendant, ed., ill., joint author or tr.). Put multiple relator terms in separate subfields.

700 1 Hecht, Ben, ‡d 1893-1964, ‡e direction, ‡e production.

Relator codes, which also specify a relationship of the person to the work, are contained in subfield ‡4.

‡f Date of work

The date of publication used with a title of a work in a name/title heading. A date added parenthetically to a title to distinguish between identical titles entered under the same name is not entered in a separate subfield, except for scores or sound recordings. For music, see subfield ‡n.

700 12 Freud, Sigmund, ‡d 1856-1939. ‡t Selections. ‡f 1978

‡g Miscellaneous information

Data not identified in another subfield. Unlikely to be used in field 700.

‡h Medium

Do not use.

---

- ‡j Attribution qualifier Attribution information when the responsibility is unknown, uncertain, fictitious or pseudonymous. Use for qualifiers that follow the name of a known artist for the work. Do not use subfield ‡j for headings formulated according to AACR2.
700 0 E.S., ‡c Meister, ‡d 15 cent., ‡j Follower of
- ‡k Form subheading A form subheading. Use in the name or title portion. For example, Selections.

‡x International Standard Serial Number

The International Standard Serial Number (ISSN) for a serial title given in the title portion of a name/title field. The ISSN is an agency-assigned data element.

The print program provides ISSN before the number in printed series statements. The ISSN does not print in the series tracing or added entry.

‡3 Materials specified

The part of the described materials to which the field applies.

‡4 Relator code

A three-character code that indicates the relationship of a name to a work. More than one relator code may be used if the corporate name has more than one function. Put multiple relator codes in separate subfields. The code is given after the name portion in name/title fields. See MARC Code Lists for Relators, Sources, Descriptive Conventions (<http://www.loc.gov/marc/relators/relahome.html>).

Definition

A conference or meeting name used as an added entry. An added entry is assigned according to various cataloging rules to give access to the bibliographic record from conference or meeting name headings which may not be more appropriately assigned as field 611 (Subject Added Entry–Meeting Name) or field 811 (Series Added Entry–Meeting Name). Conference or meeting names are the names of athletic contests, conferences, exhibitions, expositions, festivals, meetings and scientific expeditions.

If you enter a conference or meeting name indirectly (i.e., under the name of a corporate body), use field 710 (Added Entry–Corporate Name). If in doubt, use field 711.

1st Indicator

Type of meeting name entry element. The form of name. These values could be used to facilitate card filing arrangements. However, OCLC does not differentiate among forms of name for sorting cards.

0 Inverted name. Pre-AACR2 headings in inverted order.

Definition

A name associated with a work when the name is not controlled in an authority file or list. Use also for names that have not been formulated according to cataloging rules. The names may be of any type (e.g., personal, corporate, meeting). Record the parts of names consisting of several parts in whatever order is desired. Repeat field 720 for multiple names.

Use field 720 when one of the other access fields (e.g., the 1xx or 7xx fields) cannot be used because the level of control and/or structure of the name does not meet the requirements of the other access fields. Do not use field 720 for uncontrolled names intended to provide subject access. Use field 653 instead.

1st Indicator

Type of name. A value that indicates whether the name is personal, not personal or the type is not known.

␣ Undefined. The type of name is not known or not specified.

Definition

A uniform title used as an added entry. An added entry is assigned according to various cataloging rules to give access to the bibliographic record from headings which may not be more appropriately assigned as field 630 (Subject Added Entry–Uniform Title) or field 830 (Series Added Entry–Uniform Title) fields. Use for the following types of uniform titles:

- Anonymous works
- Composite manuscripts or manuscript groups
- Concordats
- Names of journals and newspapers
- Radio and television programs
- Motion pictures and videorecordings
- Treaties and inter-governmental agreements

Serials

Use field 730 for a title added entry that cannot be generated by any other field. In addition to using field 730 for uniform titles used to collocate records, field 730 may be used in AACR2 cataloging for serials uniform titles. Use field 730 to differentiate items published under an identical title proper in some cases, as outlined in the CONSER Standard Record Guidelines (<http://www.loc.gov/catdir/cpsd/conserdoc.pdf>). The uniform title consists of the title proper followed by a qualifier enclosed in parentheses. The qualifier is usually the place of publication, distribution or name of the issuing body.

If the place qualifier changes (e.g., either the name of the place changes or the place of publication changes), do not change the uniform title. Continue to use the existing record. Enter the appropriate information in a note.

If the issuing-body qualifier changes (e.g., either the name of the body changes or that body ceases to be associated with the work), create a new record with a new uniform title. See the Library of Congress Rule Interpretation 25.5B (<http://www.loc.gov/catdir/cpsocurr/cricri.html>) for guidelines about choice of qualifier.

1st Indicator

Nonfiling characters. The number of character positions associated with a definite or indefinite article (e.g., An or The) at the beginning of a title and that are disregarded in sorting and filing processes.

Current practice is to enter the title without articles and use 1st indicator value 0.

0 No nonfiling characters. No initial article character positions are disregarded. Use value 0 if the title does not begin with an article.

730 0 Collection africaine.

Diacritical marks or special characters at the beginning of a series statement field that does not begin with an initial article are not counted as nonfiling characters.

Definition

An added entry for uncontrolled related titles and uncontrolled analytical titles. An uncontrolled title is a title not controlled through an authority file or another bibliographic record. Use field 740 for the title portion of a related work that would normally be entered under a name/title heading in catalog entry form. In records for collections lacking a collective title, use field 740 also for titles recorded in field 245 subsequent to the first title.

Use 730 Added Entry–Uniform Title (R) for uniform title added entries for related works and for analytical titles. Use field 246 for variant forms of the title recorded in field 245 and variants of the first title in field 245 for collections lacking a collective title.

‡a Taxonomic name

The taxonomic name conforms to the syntax controls of the taxonomic classification system identified in subfield ‡2. Repeat subfield ‡a for each taxonomic name associated with the item. Precede subfield ‡a by subfield ‡c, which indicates the taxonomic hierarchical category to which the name belongs. Each combination is input in repeatable ‡c and ‡a subfields in taxonomic hierarchical order.

‡c Taxonomic category

The taxonomic category to which the name in subfield ‡a belongs. The terms used in this subfield are specified by the thesaurus identified in subfield ‡2. Subfield ‡c always precedes the data with which it is associated.

‡d Common or alternative name

The common or alternative name to which the name in subfield ‡a belongs. Subfield ‡d may refer to one or multiple occurrences of subfield ‡a.

‡x Nonpublic note

A note pertaining to the taxonomic identification of the item that is in a form not adequate for public display.

780	Preceding Entry (R)
785	Succeeding Entry (R)
786	Data Source Entry (R)
787	Nonspecific Relationship Entry (R)

Definition

A linking entry describes separately cataloged publications that are related to the item you are cataloging. These fields allow the establishment of bibliographic connections among materials with diverse relationships.

Linking entry fields do not take the place of added entry fields and do not generate tracings. Use the 4xx or 8xx series fields or field 730, for example, for added entries. Most linking entries are made for serials.

Each of the linking entry fields specifies a different bibliographic relationship between the target item described by the record and a related item. These relationships fall into the following groups:

- Related items that assist the user in continuing to search, but are not physically required to obtain the target item (e.g., former entries for serials or translations of the target item)
- Related items that have to be obtained physically in order to use the target item (e.g., the host item for a component part such as a journal issue containing a specific article)
- Related items that are constituent units of a larger whole (e.g., the individual photographs contained in a visual material collection)

The linking entry fields generate a note in the record in which they appear. Use the linking entry fields also to provide machine linkage between the bibliographic record for the target item and the bibliographic record for a related item, if the related item is covered by a separate record.

Terms used in linking entry fields

Target item. A bibliographic item that is the principal or primary unit for the description of which the record was constructed. The target item is the item to which the data in Type and BLvl apply. The title of the target item is in the field 245.

Related item. A bibliographic item that has either a chronological, horizontal, or vertical relationship with a target item, and for which the linking entry field is created.

Host item. A bibliographic item that either physically contains (as in the case of the component part), or bibliographically includes, (as in the case of a constituent unit), the subpart that is the target item for the record. For example: if a record describes a journal article, the host is the journal; if a record describes one digital item in a set, the host is the set.

Component part. A bibliographic item that is physically part of another bibliographic item such that the retrieval of the part is dependent on the physical identification and location of the host item (e.g., a chapter in a book or an article in a journal).

Constituent unit. A bibliographic item that is part of another item. The constituent unit is physically separate from the item of which it is considered a part

Chronological relationship. The relationship in time between bibliographic items (e.g., the relation of a serial to its predecessors and successors).

Horizontal relationship. The relationship between versions of a bibliographic item in different languages, format, media, etc.

Vertical relationship. The hierarchical relationship of the whole to its parts and the parts to the whole (e.g., a journal article to the journal or a subseries to a main entry series).

Construction of linking entries

If a separate record for the related publication exists, use that record as the source of data for the linking entry.

The first choice for identification is the uniform title. If available, use the entire uniform title (e.g., title and qualifier) to identify the related publication. If the uniform title is unavailable, use the main entry and title proper. For example, if OCLC record number 6597310 has the following uniform title:

130 0 Monthly digest of statistics (Zimbabwe. Central Statistical Office)

It would be linked to the related publication in field 780.

780 00 ‡t Monthly digest of statistics (Zimbabwe. Central Statistical Office) ‡w (OCoLC)6597310

Some records may not have uniform titles or main entries/titles because the Library of Congress used the key title and International Standard Serial Number for linking fields prior to AACR2.

Pre-AACR2 serials

You must differentiate pre-AACR2 serials that have the same title proper, but no distinguishing uniform title. Use the following types of information (listed in order of preference) to differentiate among pre-AACR2 serials:

- Name of edition (subfield ‡b)
- Language (subfield ‡e)
- Country (subfield ‡f)
- Other qualifying information (subfield ‡c)

Because the definition of the codes in subfield ‡7 are dependent on the character position in which they occur, the coding of any character position mandates that each preceding character position contains a code. Succeeding character positions need not be used. For example, if position 0 and 1 are not applicable, but position 2 is, then position 0 and 1 contain code n.

Printing

Except for fields 773, 780, and 785, the 76x–78x fields do not print. Enter indicator values, however, as if they do. If an intelligible note can be provided from the linking entry field, use 1st indicator value 0. If an intelligible note cannot be provided, use 1st indicator value 1.

Fields 773, 780 and 785 print as notes. Subfield  $\ddot{i}$  prints as input. Subfield  $\ddot{o}$  does not print. The program supplies display constants according to the indicator values. Do not enter display constants such as In:, Continues: or Absorbed by: in these fields. See fields 773, 780 and 785 for more information.

If you want to provide notes for nonprinting linking entry fields, use field 500 or field 580. If you use fields 500 or 580 to provide a note, use 1st indicator value 1 in the linking entry field.

Definition

Information about the related parent record when the target item in a vertical relationship is a single issue, supplement or special issue of the parent item. See “76x-78x Linking Entry Fields—Introduction” for more information.

1st Indicator

Note controller. A value that specifies whether or not a display note is to be generated from the field. These values could be used to control printing. However, field 772 does not print. Nevertheless, you should enter the values as if it does.

0 Display note. A note is generated from the data in the linking entry field or from the related record. Use to indicate that field 580 (Linking Entry Complexity Note) is not present.

1 Do not display note. A note is not generated from the data in the linking entry field or from the related record. Use 1st indicator value 1 when the display constant associated with the linking field does not adequately describe the relationship. Use field 580 (Linking Entry Complexity Note) for the note.

2nd Indicator

Display constant controller. A value that controls the generation of a display constant preceding the data in the linking entry field.

↳ Supplement to. A value that generates the display constant Supplement to:.

0 Parent. A value that generates the display constant Parent:.

8 No display constant generated. A value that specifies that a display constant is not generated. Use subfield  $\ddagger$ i when special introductory text is needed.

Printing

Field 772 does not print. Do not enter Supplement to: or Parent: in field 772.

1 Do not display note. A note is not generated from the data in the linking entry field or from the related record. Use 1st indicator value I when the display constant associated with the linking field does not adequately describe the relationship. Use field 580 (Linking Entry Complexity Note) for the note.

2nd Indicator

Display constant controller. A value that controls the generation of a display constant preceding the data in the linking entry field.

b In. A value that generates the display constant In.

8 No display constant generated. A value that specifies that a display constant is not generated. Use subfield  $\ddagger i$  when special introductory text is needed.

Printing

Field 773 prints as a note if the 1st indicator value is 0. Subfields  $\ddagger h$ ,  $\ddagger m$ ,  $\ddagger n$ ,  $\ddagger r$ ,  $\ddagger u$ ,  $\ddagger w$ ,  $\ddagger x$ ,  $\ddagger y$ ,  $\ddagger z$  and  $\ddagger 7$  do not print.

Field 773 prints as the first note. The print program supplies In at the beginning of the note. The program also supplies parentheses around the contents of subfield  $\ddagger k$  and brackets around the contents of subfield  $\ddagger s$ .

The print program supplies space-dash-space ( -- ) between all subfields after subfield  $\ddagger t$ , i.e., between  $\ddagger t$  and  $\ddagger b$ , between  $\ddagger b$  and  $\ddagger d$ , etc.).

773 0  $\ddagger 7$  nnam  $\ddagger t$  Great cases of Interpol.  $\ddagger b$  1st ed.  $\ddagger d$  Pleasantville, N.Y. :

Prints in AACR2 records as:

In Great cases of Interpol. -- 1st ed. -- Pleasantville, NY : Reader's Digest
Association, c1982.

Non-ISBD records. Field 773 prints in the series position after the physical description. If a physical description is not present, field 773 prints as a separate paragraph after the title area. In addition, the program supplies parentheses around the entire note.

Printing with field 580. Use field 580 to print notes if information in 773 cannot generate an intelligible note or if the display constant In is inappropriate. If you use field 580, use value I for the 1st indicator in field 773.

Definition

Information about a constituent unit associated with a larger bibliographic unit. The constituent unit may be part of a single bibliographic item, a multipart item or a collection. The constituent item may or may not be described in a separate bibliographic record. When a note is generated from this field, it is displayed with an introductory phrase that is generated as a display constant based on the 2nd indicator value. See “76x-78x Linking Entry Fields—Introduction” for more information.

1st Indicator

Note controller. A value that specifies whether or not a display note is to be generated from the field. These values could be used to control printing. However, field 774 does not print. Nevertheless, you should enter the values as if it does.

0 Display note. A note is generated from the data in the linking entry field or from the related record. Use to indicate that field 580 (Linking Entry Complexity Note) is not present.

1 Do not display note. A note is not generated from the data in the linking entry field or from the related record. Use 1st indicator value 1 when the display constant associated with the linking field does not adequately describe the relationship. Use field 580 (Linking Entry Complexity Note) for the note.

2nd Indicator

Display constant controller. A value that controls the generation of a display constant preceding the data in the linking entry field.

Definition

Information about the other available editions in a horizontal relationship with the work. Use for the following types of editions:

- Language editions. When a serial is issued simultaneously in more than one language by the same publisher, rather than an edition issued by another publisher, use field 775.
- Regular-print editions. When the serial being cataloged is a regular-print reprint, use field 775 for the original entry.
- Other editions. Use field 775 for other editions of the target item. These editions will generally bear the same title as the target item, but have edition information that distinguishes them.

See “76x-78x Linking Entry Fields–Introduction” for more information.

1st Indicator

Note controller. A value that specifies whether or not a display note is to be generated from the field. These values could be used to control printing. However, field 775 does not print. Nevertheless, you should enter the values as if it does.

0 Display note. A note is generated from the data in the linking entry field or from the related record. Use to indicate that field 580 (Linking Entry Complexity Note) is not present.

1 Do not display note. A note is not generated from the data in the linking entry field or from the related record. Use 1st indicator value 1 when the display constant associated with the linking field does not adequately describe the relationship. Use field 580 (Linking Entry Complexity Note) for the note.

2nd Indicator

Display constant controller. A value that controls the generation of a display constant preceding the data in the linking entry field.

b Other edition available. A value that generates the display constant Other edition available:.

8 No display constant generated. A value that specifies that a display constant is not generated. Use subfield †i when special introductory text is needed.

Printing

Definition

Information about the publications which are separately cataloged, but that are issued with or included with the target item in a horizontal relationship. Do not use for bound with notes (field 501 [“With” Note]). See “76x-78x Linking Entry Fields—Introduction” for more information.

1st Indicator

Note controller. A value that specifies whether or not a display note is to be generated from the field. These values could be used to control printing. However, field 777 does not print. Nevertheless, you should enter the values as if it does.

0 Display note. A note is generated from the data in the linking entry field or from the related record. Use to indicate that field 580 (Linking Entry Complexity Note) is not present.

1 Do not display note. A note is not generated from the data in the linking entry field or from the related record. Use 1st indicator value 1 when the display constant associated with the linking field does not adequately describe the relationship. Use field 580 (Linking Entry Complexity Note) for the note.

2nd Indicator

b Issued with. A value that generates the display constant Issued with.

Subfields

‡a Personal name A surname and/or forename; abbreviations, initials, letters, numbers or phrases used in place of a name; or a family name. Use subfield ‡c for parenthetical qualifying terms associated with the name. Use subfield ‡q for fuller forms of a name added as a qualifier. Enter a period after initials. Enter one space between initials.

790 1 Smith, W. Zachariah.

‡b Numeration A Roman numeral alone or a Roman numeral and a subsequent part of a forename. Use only in a forename heading (i.e., entries with 1st indicator value 0).

790 0 Gustaf ‡b II Adolf.

‡c Titles and other words associated with a name Titles and other words associated with a name. These include qualifying information such as:

- A Roman numeral used with a surname
- Initials of an academic degree or denoting membership in an organization, e.g., F.L.A.
- Terms of address, e.g., Mrs.
- Titles designating rank, office or nobility, e.g., Sir
- Other words or phrases associated with a name, e.g., clockmaker or Saint 790 0 Joseph, ‡c Nez Perc'e Chief.

If the heading is a surname followed directly by a prefix without intervening forenames or forename initials, the prefix is contained in subfield ‡c to prevent its being processed as a forename in searching.

790 1 Walle-Lissnijder, ‡c van de.

If a heading consists of a surname with a title or associated words, enter the title following the surname and preceding any other element of the heading. Use subfield ‡q for fuller forms of names in parentheses.

790 1 Gatti de Gamond, ‡c Madame ‡q (Z'oe Charlotte)

Multiple adjacent titles or words associated with a name are contained in a single subfield ‡c. Repeat subfield ‡c only when words associated with a name are separated by subelements contained in other subfields.

790 0 Thomas, ‡c Aquinas, Saint, ‡d 1225?-1274.

Use for other parenthetical additions to a name.

790 0 Taj Mahal ‡c (Musician)

‡d Dates associated with a name Birth, death or flourished dates used with a name. A qualifier used with the date (e.g., b., d., ca., fl., cent. or ?) is also contained in subfield ‡d.

790 1 Adams, Henry, ‡d 1838-1918.

The print program provides any necessary additional spaces after the hyphen.

790 1 Smith, John, ‡d 1924- ‡e defendant.

Prints as:

Definition

Nonstandard uniform title added entries. Use for added entries not supported by cataloging rules (e.g., donor or gift information or variant form). Enter information in field 793 as you would in field 730 (Added Entry–Uniform Title). Note: Alternatively, you may also use field 799 (Local Added Entry–Uniform Title). Follow local practice.

Master record retention

Field 793 is not retained in the master record. However, it is retained in archive records, institution records, exported records, and OCLC-MARC records.

1st Indicator

Nonfiling characters. The number of character positions associated with a definite or indefinite article (e.g., An or The) at the beginning of a title and that are disregarded in sorting and filing processes.

Current practice is to enter the title without articles and use 1st indicator value 0.

0 No nonfiling characters. No initial article character positions are disregarded. Use value 0 if the title does not begin with an article.

793 0 Collection africaine.

Diacritical marks or special characters at the beginning of a series statement field that does not begin with an initial article are not counted as nonfiling characters.

793 0 Ökonomische Studien ; ‡v Bd. 22.

1-9 Number of nonfiling characters present. A field begins with a definite or indefinite article that is disregarded in sorting and filing processes. Enter the number of characters in the article, plus spaces, punctuation, diacritical marks and special characters that precede the first significant word.

Any diacritical mark or special character associated with the first filing character is not included in the count of nonfiling characters.

2nd Indicator

Type of added entry. The type of added entry. The values distinguish between no information provided and an analytical entry. These indicators could be used to facilitate card filing arrangements. However, OCLC does not differentiate among types of added entries for sorting cards.

b No information provided. Either the added entry is not for an analytic or no information is provided as to whether the added entry is for an analytic.
