

SOCIETY: FIFTH ANNIVERSARY GALA FOR WALRUS FOUNDATION

Globe Toronto

How do you keep a Walrus afloat? 'Tusk, tusk'; Oh, that canny publisher Shelley Ambrose. Auctioning off messages-in-a-bottle from the likes of Stephen King, Richard Branson and Desmond Tutu, she raised $227,000 for the smart, general-interest magazine and threw a legendary bash. Photos by Tom Sandler

166 words

31 January 2009

The Globe and Mail

GLOB

M2

English

2009 CTVglobemedia Publishing Inc. All Rights Reserved.

1. Walrus publisher Shelley Ambrose, left, and Senator Pamela Wallin
2. Student Vote founders Lindsay Mazzucco and Taylor Gunn dance while Molly Johnson performs
3. Magician David Ben looks into the crystal bowl with author Margaret Atwood
4. Directors Atom Egoyan, left, and Patricia Rozema with actor Sonja Smits, right
5. Victoria Jackman and Bruce Kuwabara of KPMB Architects
6. David Pecaut of the Toronto City Summit Alliance, left, with singer Molly Johnson and Helen Burstyn of the Ontario Trillium Foundation
7. Doug Knight, president St. Joseph Media, with his daughter, Emma
8. Artist Charles Pachter, left, and Paul Gerard, founder of Text-Ed Communications

Illustration

Document GLOB000020090131e51v0001s